The epidemic of violence against women and girls exists in all communities and sadly Tower Hamlets is no exception. Upon being elected Mayor in 2022, I made tackling the issue a top priority. Already, we have taken significant steps towards making the borough a safer place for women and girls – from organising successful digital women's safety walks, to bringing forward the development of a brand-new Women's Resource Centre. Our new strategy was developed through months of detailed consultation with women from across the borough.

I want to thank officers and stakeholders who put so much effort into ensuring this document accurately reflects the complex and ever-evolving needs of our residents. I am proud to note that we were able to more than double the consultation sample from our last needs assessment, as well as conduct a number of specialised focus groups with some of our most under-served and marginalised communities.

I'd also like to thank our partners in the NHS and police, who have worked with us to address the appalling rates of gender-based violence in this borough over recent years. Thanks to these partners, Tower Hamlets has managed to secure the highest rate of rape convictions in London, provide trauma-informed support to hundreds of domestic abuse victims a year, and provide pathways to safety for victims of exploitation who would otherwise fall through the cracks. While these early successes are laudable, we still have a long way to go.

Tower Hamlets continues to rank highly in domestic and sexual violence statistics – a blight on our wonderful borough and its communities.

Remedying this situation will require comprehensive and long-term engagement. It will require hard work from all sectors of society; from the Council and from our partners. Fortunately, I believe we have the commitment and cooperation required to face this challenge. More than this, I believe we have put together a strategy that is truly groundbreaking in the way it places the safety and promotion of women and girls at the heart of all aspects of our council services, as well as spotlights the unique needs of the most marginalised women. It also centres the need to bring about wider cultural change around misogyny in our society.

In the coming years, I look forward to seeing this strategy unfold, helping to transform this borough into one where no woman – regardless of ethnicity, class, religion, or sexual orientation – has to feel unsafe in the streets or in their home.

Lutfur Rahman
Executive Mayor of Tower Hamlets

Introduction

Our vision of a safe Tower Hamlets

As a worldwide issue of epidemic proportions that has a significant impact on the lives of our residents, Violence against Women and Girls (VAWG) is recognised at all levels as a council-wide priority.

Data suggests that 1 in 3 women in the United Kingdom will be victims of gender-based violence at some point in their life. For this council that is fundamentally unacceptable, and it is a top priority to ensure that no more women in Tower Hamlets be victimized in this way. We are committed to making serious investments in protecting women's safety. We are looking at a variety of new support services, enforcement initiatives, and targeted engagement projects to ensure that all Tower Hamlets residents can walk through our streets and sleep in their homes without fear of suffering gender-based violence. We must also look at changing cultures that lead to gender based violence, providing specialized support to our most marginalized residents, and putting a stop once and for all to Violence Against Women and Girls.

This strategy sets out the role we can all play in tackling VAWG as part of a coordinated community response, building on the sector-leading and award-winning work that has been happening within our borough since the launch of our first VAWG strategy in 2012.

What is VAWG?

VAWG covers a range of unacceptable and deeply distressing crimes, including rape and other sexual offences, stalking and harassment, domestic abuse, modern slavery, so-called 'honour'-based abuse (including female genital mutilation, forced marriage and 'honour' killings) and image-based sexual abuse, among others.

VAWG is a term used to refer to a range of crimes which disproportionately affect women and girls. In common with others who are working to tackle violence and abuse and support those affected, we use the term 'VAWG' to ensure that we do not lose sight of those who are most affected. However, we recognise that people of any sex or gender can experience violence or abuse of this nature and the consequences affect everyone in our community.

Safety in public spaces

For the first time this strategy will include a broader focus on women's safety in public spaces, considering how our streets, parks and public spaces affect women and girls and what improvements need to be made to make the borough feel inclusive, welcoming and safe. This strategy will also encompass work to address behaviours such as sexual harassment, catcalling, and the treatment of women in the nighttime economy through our Don't Cross the Line campaign, gender-inclusive design action plan, women's safety walks and making use of resources such as local enforcement officers and CCTV.

Intersectionality

It is also important to recognise that different forms of disadvantage are compounded by certain protected characteristics (e.g. race, faith, age) and by combinations of them. For example, the barriers faced by a young, black transgender woman may differ from those experienced as an elderly, Asian cisgender man. We seek throughout this strategy to apply an intersectional lens to VAWG and understand the additional vulnerabilities faced by some of the members of our community.

Why do we need a VAWG and women's safety strategy in Tower Hamlets?

What are we doing to tackle VAWG and public safety?

Our priorities

We have three overarching priorities that capture the wide range of work we will be doing around gender abuse and public safety. These are:

Preventing Harm and Promoting Safety

Supporting Victims and Survivors

Responding to Perpetrators

More about our approach and the actions we'll be taking is provided on the following pages and in the action plan to be published which will sit under this strategy document.

Unfortunately, as of April 2024, the SDAC no longer exists due to resourcing challenges within the Criminal Justice System agencies post-Covid.</li><li>● Launched two new perpetrator programmes, the Culturally Integrated Family Approach (CIFA) Programme and the Positive Change Service (for a total of three in-borough perpetrator programmes). Who is responsible for delivering our strategy?

The delivery of most parts of the VAWG and Women's Safety Strategy will be overseen by the Tower Hamlets VAWG Steering Group, the Community Safety Partnership (CSP) and other key Tower Hamlets governance boards as outlined and illustrated in the diagram below. Working in partnership with public sector and voluntary and community sector stakeholders, the VAWG Steering Group aims to prevent VAWG in Tower Hamlets and reduce the emotional and physical harm it causes to individuals and to the community.

The VAWG Steering Group is responsible for developing the detailed action plan for the majority of elements of this strategy and will report to the CSP on progress quarterly. This action plan will be published as an appendix of the VAWG strategy available on our website or as a future update to this document. The action plan will be a dynamic, live document that will be managed by the group throughout the life of the strategy.

Where there are actions managed elsewhere, for example those arising from our Gender Inclusive Design Review or the Tower Hamlets Women's Commission which will be managed under the Local Plan, Corporate Equalities Board and the associated governance arrangements. However, they will also provide updates on progress to the VAWG steering group as part of regular reporting to align the work we're doing in those areas and ensure that the group has a view of activity across the whole system.
